PROGRAMS

BJS identifies National Issues, creates practical solutions based on experiences and then converts them into workable modules. These modules are then implemented in the home ground successfully. After analysing the results of the pilot run, the modules are taken across the country for implementation. This has been the tried and tested method of working. This kind of approach has been the Unique Performance Proposition of this organisation for two and a half decades now.

Jain Janaganana

Information on family background of the Jain Community was collected in 2004 to 2005 using predefined schedule in Maharashtra state. Received 20590 completed forms from different parts of Maharashtra. Information on Age, Sex, Blood group, Education (Indian degree/ foreign degree), Occupation/employment, and participation in social/religious activities was collected.

According to survey

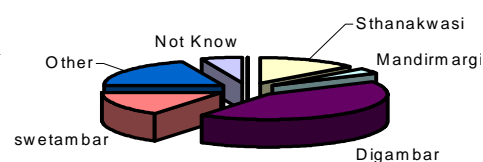

- Child Sex Ratio within Jain Community is declining; sixteen states and union territories have a child sex ratio below 850 female per 1000 male among Jains. Among the major states having large Jain population sex ratio in the age group 0-6 is low at 832 in Gujarat and 878 in Rajasthan.
- The proportion of growth rate declined to 0.4% in the years 1991 and 2001 i.e. 20% decline.
- Jains had average 1.5 children per women, which was lowest among all other Indian religious communities.
- The literacy rate among the Jains was the highest at 94.1 percent.
- As compared to all religion the female work participation is lowest among Jains. It is noted as 9.2 percent only.

maintenance of wife, parents and children etc. Three counseling sessions were held from the month of August to December. BJS approached parties with the help of district court. Counselors and lawyers approached the parties individually. It played positive and constructive role. More than 30 lawyers and counselors were involved in this process. The settlement resolving the misunderstandings between couples was noted down on the paper for each case. Bharatiya Jain Sanghatana put up more than 30 cases in front of Lok Adalat.

Basic Family Counseling Course

All communities' these days are facing immense problems relating to pre marriage & post marriage issues. Realizing the need to resolve such issues BJS has taken it upon itself to train & establish marriage counsellors at district level. A counselor course was designed after due research. The first training course was conducted at Head Office between 9-13th Sept. 2009. 15 Participants attended & 05 were approved as counselors.

Yuvak Yuvati Parichay Sammelan

Choosing the Right Life partner for eligible boys & girls is an essential requirement. Selection of a suitable & appropriate partner becomes one of the important decisions of adult life. BJS organises Parichay Sammelan countrywide for the Jain Community with an aim to create a platform for prospective Yuvaks & Yuvatis for choosing a life partner. BJS organises 4 different types of Parichay Sammelan.
